"...in a market now flooded with in-ear Headphones for iPods and other MP3 players—ranging from cheaply built/sounding (Apple's own earbuds, for example) to higher-priced audiophile buds from companies like Shure and Bose—not only do the Miles Davis Tribute 'phones sound as good as the press sheet says they do, they're hands-down amongst the most comfortable buds on the market." - John Kelman, AllAboutJazz.com Read Full Review

"The Miles Davis Tribute in-ear headphones incorporate resonance-free metal bodies surrounding high-quality miniature speaker drivers. The gold/brass finish echoes the look of Davis' trumpet and adds a brazen touch of style that jazz's flamboyant Prince of Darkness surely would have appreciated."

The Ultimate Jazz Experience Headphone

Made for Enjoying Miles and All That Jazz

From the groundbreaking sonorities of Birth of the Cool, through the rich orchestral textures of Sketches of Spain and the contemplative intimacy of Kind of Blue, you've never heard your favorite jazz the way you will through Miles Davis Tribute Jazz Headphones.

Monster has designed these special edition in-ear monitors to be just as masterful and musically arresting as the genius that inspired them.

Frontmen And Sidemen Take Center Stage

Jazz is about musicianship and so are these tribute headphones, which have been designed to showcase your favorite musicians in every way. From Mingus's upright to Jaco's electric, bass players finally get their due. Whether it's the delicacy of Paul Motian or the explosiveness of Tony Williams, drummers sound remarkably present. Pianists like Bill Evans and Herbie Hancock float through the soundstage with incredible immediacy. And of course, the sax men, from Bird to Trane to Cannonball -- it's like they're playing right there in front of you.

"I put on the ear buds" and see the band"....
